*Moon in first quarter.

Whoever prayed for rain must have been most fervent. The wells are full again.

Jenks' Landing on Chebeague has been put on the list of "known" stopping places by the steamboat company. Why not Hamilton's, where there are about 100 times as many people to be accommodated?

The White Mountain Echo is doing double duty this summer, the editor of "Among the Clouds," being on an enforced vacation. The Echo's pages present their usual newsy, natty appearance and are excellently illustrated.

We miss the flag which is usually raised at Eagle Island when Com. Peary or his family are home. The aboriginal reminds us daily of his absence and also of his mission. Those who have strong eyes may see the signal without glasses of any kind from most of the lower bay islands if the day is clear.

Arrangements are being made to provide fire protection of some kind at Cliff Island. The movement is worthy of emulation by some of the bare pole reminds us daily of his apparent as yet to get any organization of this kind started. A bucket brigade, for a start, and a place where the buckets could be kept near the most congested points would perhaps be the means of saving thousands of dollars worth of property.

An open letter to President Eliot of Harvard, asking him to use his influence to obtain a general consideration throughout the country of the advisability of extending the vacation period in our schools until September 15, has been sent to several newspapers. From the standpoint of many prominent M. D.'s the present generation of school children are not in robust health, only about 10 percent being free from some weakness. It would seem that an added two weeks to the rest period would be a step in the direction of benefitting this condition, when we consider the crowding of most of the school-rooms and the shortening of many vacations in the country at a time when outdoor air is the very sweetest. The plan could surely not detract enough from progress of studies to overbalance the added impetus to health.

We cannot admit, argues the New York Evening Post, that the members of our "smart set," with all their stupidity and their passion for the inanities, are actuated by any settled principle against buying and reading books. They do, as a matter of fact, buy handsomely printed and bound "subscription" sets; buy them, we hold, with a full intention of reading some day. But so many other things must be done that the day never comes. The families who read are the fairly educated of the middle class—the families of lawyers, clergymen, teachers, doctors, and the like. They cannot afford to give many and expensive dinner parties; they cannot go to the theatre often; they actually have time to look at a book now and then. This is one reason why the rapid increase in our wealth does not mean a vastly greater demand for books. The people who get rich are by that very event swept into a circle of pleasure seekers who have not a moment for reading. They are so busy gratifying their physical senses that they are unaware even of the existence of their minds.

Undoubtedly there are, none the less, many women who have never given a thought to any civic duty. Many intelligent women honestly disapprove of woman suffrage. Still other women believe they are entitled to vote if they wish, but can see under present conditions only a multiplicity of votes to be gained, with no resulting advantage. All this is apart from the question whether woman suffrage is the greatest reform that can come to the world, insists the Boston Transcript. Just one point is certain—all women are no more Hypatias than they are Cleopatras. What is more, they know it. There are many women who are interested in their country and their kind, women responsive to the best in the arts and the humanities, women who live and love and serve their fellow-men, who yet are, if the truth be told, bored by the clamor over suffrage.

Ambassador Bryce pleased the graduates—old and young—at Madison, Wis., by speaking of their institution as standing in the front rank of American state universities. He spoke of the newness of such institutions in the world, and the interest they have for inquiring strangers in the United States. He was glad to learn that in the University of Wisconsin the college of liberal arts had as many students as all other departments put together. "That is as it should be," he said. "The study of the liberal arts fits men to profit by the teaching they will receive from other colleges. They will be all the better chemists, or engineers, or lawyers, or bankers, because they have received a training in scientific theory or in language or literature, which has given them a true outlook over the field of knowledge."

England was rather in advance of America, admits the Springfield Republican, in demanding honest names for drugs and articles of food, and a recent heavy penalty has dealt a serious blow to the profitable traffic in spurious Havana cigars. The stale trick was resorted to of adding a qualifying word: "Habana rivals," the cigars were called, with "rivals" in small print, and it was contended that the meaning was not that they rivaled Havanas in merit. But this excuse did not appeal to the court. The new movement for honesty in trade is incidentally an educational movement for the honest use of the English language. Much perverted ingenuity has gone to the invention of deceptive phrases, and to get rid of such quibbles is a sturdy upward step in commercial ethics.

Exclaims the Columbus (Ohio) Journal: Why it is that the postman never stops at your house when you are expecting a check and always does when you are expecting a bill.

VACATION TRIPS.

All Day Excursions to Interesting Places in Casco Bay.

Persons familiar with Casco bay declare that the most interesting scenery lies in the most eastern section and assert that the natural grandeur of the view from the mouth of the beautiful New Meadows river to the picturesque Gurnet bridge is not surpassed by any locality in the country. Here the highest land in the entire bay is to be found, and the "forest primeval" and "deep tangled wilderness" of the poet literally prevails. To some these few miles of wilderness, pierced by the beautiful river, might seem prosaic but to those who believe that "every manner of green-wood is a true land of fairy," the crowding fir, spruce and pine simply gives spur to the imagination and makes a sail through this part of the bay an enjoyable journey. The Casco Bay & Harpswell Lines offer a daily excursion down Casco bay and up the beautiful New Meadows river to the famous Gurnet bridge and hundreds of tourists and sightseers are met on these delightful trips through the Land of Vacation. The steamer leaves Custom House wharf every morning at 9 o'clock and reaches the Gurnet at 12.30. Shore dinners of an excellence that has made this resort famous are ready at the Gurnet house on the arrival of the excursionists. The return trip starts at 2 o'clock and reaches the city at 5.30 p. m.

Splendid all day trips can also be made to South Harpswell, Bailey's and Orrs Islands. The palatial steamer Machigonne conveys the excursionists to these charming resorts, leaving the city every day at 9.45 a. m. Matinee sails to the same place leave Custom House wharf every afternoon at 2.15 p. m. These delightful trips cover 50 miles and are largely patronized by sightseers.

The most attractive course in Casco bay in the opinion of many travelers is the one traversed by the steamer to Harpswell Center. The route is through the inner bay, along Falmonth Foreside and the South Freeport shore. Stops are made at South Freeport, Casco Castle, Cousins, Littlejohns, Bibbers and Birch Islands and Main point.

A Frightful Void.

I have been young and beautiful; I have tasted many pleasures; I have been universally beloved. At a more advanced age I have passed years in the intercourse of talent and wit. Yet I solemnly protest to you that all conditions leave a frightful void.—Mme. De Maintenon.

Littlejohn's I.

Mrs. Mary Simmons Hunnewell.

The many visitors and residents of the island were extremely grieved to learn of the death of their neighbor, Mrs. Mary Simmons Hunnewell, who passed away at the cottage of her daughter, Mrs. Kate H. Prescott of Boston, last Thursday, after an illness of six weeks. Simple, but effective funeral services were held at which Mrs. Hunnewell's only son, Rev. Frank S. Hunnewell of Reading, Mass., officiated. The casket was covered with native wild flowers. As a special mark of respect the old flag so loved by the deceased was at half mast before the cottage. After the funeral the body was removed to Boston, where it was laid at rest in Forest Hills cemetery. Mrs. Hunnewell, who died in her seventy-sixth year leaves one sister, Mrs. Sarah M. Fullerton, her senior by six years and two other children, Mrs. Eleanor M. Morton of Newton, and Mrs. Amy T. Willis of Dorchester.

Mr. Frank E. Dickerman recently returned from Bar Harbor in his beautiful yacht "Minna," where he was accompanied by Senator George Butler of Boston and Mrs. Dickerman, on an extensive cruise. Robert Dickerman, their young son, is spending the summer at Dr. Henderson's camp in Chesham, N. H., and reports that he is having a fine vacation.

A large party from South Framingham, Mass., left the island last Saturday, after a most enjoyable stay here. They are: Mr. and Mrs. O. D. Cook and daughter, Emma; Mrs. S. J. Kittredge and daughter, Lizzie and Mildred; Mrs. Eva Wheeler, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Fuller. On Thursday the party had a very pleasant cruise to Mere Point and among the islands in Captain Sawyer's launch.

Mr. F. C. Underhill of South Framingham and his family and guests Mr. H. T. Fuller of South Framingham, and Miss Theresa Cavanaugh of Ashland, Me., who have been spending a most delightful three weeks at the Alpine cottage returned to their homes last Saturday.

On Tuesday the gentlemen of the South Framingham party made a deep-sea fishing trip in Captain Sawyer's sloop and met with fine luck, bringing in a catch of forty-six fish. Mr. Frank W. Underhill was high-liner, with his catch of a ten pound cod. The other members of the party were: R. H. Elkins, Wm. J. Haynes, Thomas N. Haynes, Harold W. Miller, Edward W. Fuller, and O. D. Cook.

On Monday, July 13th, Miss Doris E. Hicks, who is spending the summer at "Lyndehurst" cottage, celebrated her ninth birthday with a party, which took the form of a picnic in the woods. Those present were Mrs. Pierce, Mrs. Dunn, Miss Lena Holden, Gladys, Gwendolyn and Martha Dunn, all of "Idewildy" cottage; Miss Nellie Jones of Portland, Master Malcolm L. Munroe of the "Glover" cottage, Mr. and Mrs. H. Seavey, grandparents of Miss Doris, Mrs. Hicks and Master Carlton Hicks. The afternoon passed very pleasantly with games, recitations and singing. Refreshments were served and a good time enjoyed by all.

Mr. Coulson is also entertaining his brother, Mr. Walter Coulson, and the latter's wife of Lawrence, who arrived last Friday. They are accompanied by Miss McMahon of this city.

Mrs. P. J. Darlington and her party from the Gray cottage with several guests from the hotel enjoyed a very pleasant exploring trip about the islands last Monday in Landlord G. H. Hamilton's motor cruiser "Esther," as guests were Mrs. Johnston and her children, Miss M. D. Andrews, Miss L. A. Chapin and Miss Bose.

Mr. Sidney T. Callowhill of Boston will be at his cottage, the "Log Cabin," through August, and will give lessons in water colors and also china decorating during the month.
